Only a few of 37 Chinese Communists named in 1947 as members of the Iloilo Chinese Democratic League (CDL), a Communist front organization that went underground during the liberation of Iloilo, reside in Iloilo City now. The others reportedly have transferred to Manila and other provinces, or have returned to China. Chinese Communists continue to propagandize openly in Chinese schools and business establishments in the town, however. Key converts, most of them graduates of the Iloilo Chinese Commercial School, and indoctrinated by Communist teachers, are replacing former CDL members. The following persons have been identified as Chinese Communist sympathizers in Iloilo City:

UY Sing (also known as UY Ting Ming)*	President of the Iloilo Chinese Chamber of Commerce, and manager of Uy Bico and Company, Iznaat Street. A resident of Jaro, he formerly supported the CDL.
YONG Tiong Kay (also known as UY Tiong Kay)	Teacher at Iloilo Chinese Commercial High School. Former Secretary of the Iloilo Chinese Chamber of Commerce. He is a scoutmaster, and is influential in spreading Communist ideology among students.
YU Don Seng (also known as YONG Don Seng)	Teacher in Iloilo Chinese Commercial High School who did not return for the present school year. He formerly taught in a Chinese school at Dalibo, Capiz, but was dismissed by the Board of Directors for advancing Communist ideology. His present address is unknown.
CHUA Ching Ho (also known as Streamson CHUA)	Former Secretary of the CDL. Currently studying medicine at Manila Central
